
God used the Books of Chronicles to turn a rabble into a new generation of faith. One day, their descendants would meet the Messiah, and the Church would be born. But His genealogy is for another day.

In the first nine chapters of Chronicles, as in all of Scripture, we hear God's voice speaking. From beginning to end, His voice always speaks effectively, as it did when God created the heavens and the earth. Notice His voice echoing through the pages of Scripture. It is the voice of God that ...

- Spoke the universe into being
- Called out to Adam and Eve when they hid from Him in Eden
- Pronounced a curse on their sin and the promise of a deliverer
- Outlined God's righteous standards from Mount Sinai
- For centuries, called His sinful people back to Him through His prophets
- Delivered warnings of judgment against His unrepentant people
- Whispered consolation and encouragement to His faithful children
- Ruled all the nations of the world, even as His people pined in exile
- Restored His people from exile after seventy years
- Cried from a manger with the voice of an infant
- Taught words of perfect truth to the nation Israel
- Stood in silence, as His own people sentenced Him to death
- Cried, "It is finished!" from the cross, after accomplishing our redemption
- Sent the Holy Spirit to fill His Church
- Calls from the pages of the Bible to redeem a people for Himself
- Deeply desires to talk with you, hear from you, fellowship with you
- Alone deserves your love, allegiance, obedience—and your time.

Have a happy New Year, as you read God's Word and follow His ways.

Bible Reading Plan and Prayer Guide

(Year THREE) January 2020

Ascribe to the LORD the glory due his name; bring an offering and come before him! Worship the LORD in the splendor of holiness; tremble before him, all the earth; yes, the world is established; it shall never be moved. Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice, and let them say among the nations, "The LORD reigns!"

—1st Chronicles 16:29-31

The Voice

Well, it's New Year's Day—God's gift to everyone. Take time to tell Him thank you for the New Year and commit the next 365 days into His wise and loving hands.

You'll notice that we're starting 1st Chronicles at chapter ten. Chapters 1-9, the only ones we skip in our three-year trip through Scripture, are almost entirely genealogies—lists of names that connect father to son across centuries of history. Since it's a holiday, feel free to read through the chapters, if you'd like. If you do, it will help to understand that these long lists of names serve an important purpose.

The purpose is connection. The Chronicles were written to a rabble—a few thousand Israelis, just returned to the Promised Land from exile, after Cyrus, king of Persia, gave them permission. The glory days of David, Solomon, or even Hezekiah lay centuries in the past. These people were subjects of gentile conquerors. What business did they have to expect great things from God?

The first nine chapters of 1st Chronicles create a concrete connection between this returning rabble and the great heroes of faith from days gone by. Whatever the era, no matter the circumstance, the people of God are the people of God. And the great thing about God's people is the God we serve.

These genealogies connect the returning remnant with the original great men of faith: Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, etc. The occasional vignettes that pop up (Jabez, in 4:9-10, for example) demonstrate ways in which ordinary people can connect to the great God of the past. Greatness isn't in God's people, but through faith, God's people access and reflect the greatness of God.
